Letter from the Editor

Here it comes, the first measurable snowstorm of the season. Will it produce the depths that are being claimed by the meteorologists or will it fizzle out as in so many times before? Since I made a special point of stopping at the DNR office on Friday to renew the registrations and trail passes for my two sleds, this will probably dry up to a dusting or switch to rain and coat the fields and roads making only the auto body shops happy.

But because of my enjoyment of this sport my optimism flourishes every year when they forecast these measurable snow storms that just maybe, just maybe, this will be the year that will return us to the snow falls of my youth and we all can enjoy Mother Nature's bounties and the dedicated work of the SnoMos.

Should we get totals to begin riding, remember to keep it safe.
Happy holidays. Bryan
