Letter From the Editor

It's difficult to think about planning for the snowmobile season after the shock that has rocked our cities. My thoughts and prayers go out to those affected by this tragedy and hope that the healing can begin soon.

This country has endured many tragedies throughout the years but nothing of this magnitude has struck in our own back yard. It is comforting to see how Minnesotans responded without question to help their neighbors and friends in need and how the emergency response teams flew into action flawlessly and with great professionalism ensuring that help was gotten to those in need often without regard to their own safety.

Time will pass and thankfully this community will recover but the shock and images of this tragedy will certainly be etched in our hearts and minds forever.
